

READY FOR THE CONTEST

The University Boys in Good Form to Meet Their Opponents From Utah

The Nevada boys are ready to face their opponents from Utah. Each one is having his particular stunt every evening on the track or field and this date finds most all in good condition. Yet there are a few owing to lax training methods that will not be able to put forth their best efforts for the University.

Hart has procured a fine new spruce vaulting pole, and is again coming back to his usual form. He is now vaulting 11 feet and when he becomes accustomed to the new pole, we expect him to do surprising things in this event.

Abe Steckle has now almost fully recovered from his sprained ankle and is doing good work with the hammer again.

Captain Smith is still handicapped by his injured shoulder, but will be ready to heave the lead with the best of them on May 30.

Smith is improving a great deal in this event, and with the perfection of the triple turn, will be a close rival to Plow of California.

Relying on the form of the men at the present time this should be the most successful meet that Nevada has ever had. A great many of the present records should be broken. In the mile run Taylor should beat 4:46. I. K. Steckle in the quarter mile has 53 seconds to defeat, and all expect him to do so next Saturday. Hart will battle against his own record of 11 feet 4 inches, but this will be easy when Jap strikes his gait.

We look for O. Smith to lose the hammer and Abe Steckle should be a close second. Frizell in the broad jump and hurdles should raise the standard a bit. The feature of the meet will no doubt be the 100 yard sprint. Utah has a very fast man in Rladant, and last year defeated Hoffman, but this year we think we are safe in saying that Hoffman will reach the tape first. The Utah men are very confident of their event and are willing to speculate on their opinion.

Take Turn About

Little Willie Hunter has a pinto pony in his possession now-a-days on which he rides to and from his daily duties at Vista. The pony weighs just 750 pounds.

"Fat's" weight lacks fifty pounds of reaching this figure, yet Glendale denizens have seen Mr. Hunter toting his tired mount on several occasions, and they swear that never was there such a humane individual as this man of many pounds who thinks turn about is fair play, even with a solemn little pinto pony.

Splendid Number

Upon the occasion President Roosevelt's visit to Reno, the Journal issued a splendid illustrated edition. It was a credit to the Journal publisher and to the mechanical and reportorial departments.—Wells Herald.

Freak of Nature

A shepherd spent the day in this city exhibiting a pet lamb, which appears like other lambs save that it has five legs, says the News. The little animal is very tame and follows its owner like a dog.

ANOTHER RECITAL.

Reno People Will be Afforded Another Opportunity to Hear Miss Rafetto. Miss Lena Rafetto, the talented young actress whom Nevada is proud to claim, will give a dramatic recital in this city on the evening of the 5th of June in McKissick's opera house.

The box sheet will be open Tuesday at Rosenthal & Armanko's. Last fall Miss Rafetto gave a recital here and it was greatly appreciated. In fact, there was a demand that it be repeated.

The program will embrace scenes from comedy and drama and, by request, she will repeat the great scene from Magda.

Miss Rafetto expects to leave shortly for the east to take a leading part with Henry Miller and this will be the last opportunity of Reno people for a long time to hear the talented Carson girl, who has risen to the heights of her profession.

Will be a Swell Function

Invitations are out for the Normal reception. This is an annual affair given to the senior normals by the underclass girls, and is always a swell social function, being the first event of the commencement exercises. The date set for this ball is Thursday the 28th inst.

Struggling With Tests

Final examinations at the University will be finished by Tuesday and the Varsity students free to enjoy the festivities of commencement week.

Now Rehearsing

Rehearsals for "The Octoroon" are proceeding nicely. The play gives promise of being the best amateur staged in Reno for a long time.

New Assay Office

R. H. Frazer has opened up an assay office in this city and is meeting a rush of prospectors with specimens that give all sorts of promise.

Credit to the State

The Reno Journal issued a special Roosevelt number Tuesday. The number is a credit to the state.—Dispatch.

WILLING TO BOND.

Reno Business Men Acknowledge It As the Best Way Out of the Difficulty.

An article in the Journal yesterday morning relative to the plan being considered by the city council for the purpose of raising revenue has evoked considerable discussion. The Journal last evening obtained interviews with about fifty business men on the matter and more than half of them are in favor of a bond issue rather than any of the other suggested methods of obtaining funds.

The indications are that the property owners of Reno are ready to stand in for a bond issue in order to pay debts and give a little working room. If they vote as freely as they submit to interviews, Reno will pass the bond matter easily.

MEETING OF THE VETERANS.

The Spanish War Volunteers to Form Organization This Afternoon.

There should be no misunderstanding with regard to forming a permanent organization of Spanish war veterans, as all who were enlisted into service are eligible for membership. Capt. Stoddard of Company C of the Nevada battalion of infantry is favorably spoken of for commander of the post.

The boys of the late war must soon fall into the footsteps of the heroes of '61-5, therefore it is especially necessary that all ex-soldiers should take an active interest in this movement.

The place of meeting will be 137 Virginia street at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Building Activities Elsewhere

Frank E. Wilkin, the architect, who returned from Lovelock yesterday, says he has prepared plans for a new two story brick building in Lovelock for Joseph Hill. He has also submitted plans for the remodeling of the Big Meadows hotel there. Plans have also been completed for a two story building for Lou Bradley at Elko.

AN ENTERPRISE FOR OUR TOWN

Proposition to Move a Woolen Mill to Reno From an Eastern Village

There is a move on foot for bringing another and an important industry to Reno. The president of a woolen mill at Danville, Ill., who recently visited Reno, has written to Major Ingalls stating that he was prepared to bring his mill here from the east if a sufficient inducement was provided. The mill will employ about sixty operatives and will be in operation throughout the year.

The letter to Major Ingalls was referred to Senator Flanigan and the latter, with his usual progressive spirit, immediately stated to a Journal representative that he would subscribe a portion, even one-half of the amount demanded, in order to have the industry established in this city.

A large factory of this kind would mean a market for Nevada wool. There would be no middleman between the wool grower and the purchaser of the fabric.

The Southern Pacific Company, under its present liberal management, would doubtless make a rate that would insure the manufacture and shipment of woolen goods at a profit.

Local Short Stops

Bud Phillios is up from San Francisco.

Henry Riter is convalescent from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Frank G. Folsom has returned from a visit to Carson.

The Washoe bar and lunch counter will be closed from 1:30 to 4 o'clock this afternoon on account of the funeral of the late Tina Johnson.

George Callahan has returned from a visit to Hanford, Cal.

Senator Westerfield is building an addition to his house on Mill street.

The Indian Bound Over

Yesterday Justice Nash bound over the Indian who assaulted Annie Callahan, placing his bonds in the sum of $2,000. They were not furnished.

Lots of Scraps

Last evening the saloons on Commercial street were enlivened by a number of hard scraps. Officer Ferrell was Johnny-on-the-spot in both cases. He needed the assistance of a couple of bystanders in one of the fights, because he was one against several. However, he left a couple of badly damaged heads as evidence that "one of the finest" had been run up against.

THE COPS EARN THEIR MONEY.

A Couple of Hard Runs Result in the Landing of Prisoners.

There was a funny mixup yesterday, or rather a series of them in Constable circles.

Constable Wilson started across to the county jail with two men arrested for selling liquor to Indians, and had a drunken squaw with him for evidence.

The prisoners were handcuffed together. The name of one of them was Harry Davis. He is a negro. Harry Davis is an unlucky name in local police circles. Davis and the man he was shackled with started to give the cop the slip. Mr. Wilson found a piece of rope with which he bound the squaw to a lamp post and then started out and recaptured the two prisoners. The mahala was patiently waiting when he returned.

A little later Constable Wilson and Deputy Fred Hagerman struck out after a man that they wanted pretty badly.

They found him, but he refused to be arrested and proceeded to dash through a picket fence. Both officers took a couple of shots at him, but he tarried not. A chicken coop was in his way. He went into the front door and out of the rear entrance and still the officers followed him, emptying their pistols by the way.

A ditch lay in the way. They prisoner jumped in and was submerged up to the neck. The cold water brought him to his senses and he submitted to arrest.

HIS VISIT TO SEATTLE

President Roosevelt Is Lavishly Entertained

SEATTLE, Wash., May 23—After having traveled practically the entire length of the Pacific coast of the United States, President Roosevelt is due to reach Seattle late this afternoon. He comes by boat, leaving Tacoma this morning and making brief stops en route at Bremerton and Everett.

Excursions have been run from Fairhaven, Whatcom and other points and Seattle is filled with hundreds of visitors anxious to participate in the greeting to the chief executive of the nation. Business houses throughout the city are gay with flags and bunting, and in other respects the city presents a festive appearance. Upon his arrival the president will be greeted by the mayor and other city officials and by representatives of the city's commercial bodies. The formal part of the program will be crowded into this afternoon and evening in deference to the president's well-known desires for a quiet Sabbath. From the landing place to the hotel the presidential party will be escorted by state militia and other organizations. A public reception and banquet are features of the evening program. No arrangements have been made for tomorrow beyond the general expectation that the president will take a drive about the city. An effort will also be made to have him attend church services to be held under the auspices of the veterans' organizations in honor of the memory of departed comrades.

The arrival in Seattle marks the completion of the first half of the president's long and memorable trip. From this city the return trip will commence Monday morning, and though many stops are to be made, they will be very brief and little time will be lost in getting back to Washington. The journey is to be made by way of Nevada, Oregon and Washington, with a loop through Montana and down back to Idaho and Utah. One week hence the party is scheduled to be in Laramie, Wyo., from which point the trip eastward will be made across Nebraska, Iowa and Illinois, after which no necessary stops will be made. Unless something unforeseen occurs to upset present calculations the president will reach the national capital on the evening of June 5, just two weeks hence.

Walla Walla Makes Arrangements

WALLA WALLA, Wash., May 23—The first day of the president's return journey will end at Walla Walla, after a day's ride across the state of Washington and through the beautiful Cascade mountain region. It has been so long since this city has entertained a chief executive of the nation that it will practically be a new experience for her citizens. The only other president who has visited Walla Walla was President Hayes and it is almost a quarter of a century since he stopped here in company with General Sherman, Secretary of War Ramsey and several other notables composing the party.

Walla Walla is preparing for a big time next Monday and it is expected at least 20,000 visitors will be in the city. The program of the president's visit here will be similar in most respects to that followed at the other cities he has visited in the northwest.

When the stomach fails to perform its functions the bowels become deranged and the liver and kidneys congested, causing numerous diseases, the most fatal of which are painless, therefore the more to be dreaded. Statement.

Yesterday morning's Journal stated that the person that wrote the article about the Freshman-Sophomore track meet was a Freshman. This statement is false. Perhaps the persons who wrote this article regarding the track meet may only rank as Freshmen, but as yet they have not been considered as such, and both of them have Sophomore cards. And as for a Freshman ridiculing his own class, I believe that they have too much pride in their class, and have too much class spirit to even think of such a thing. The article ridiculing the class of '06 wouldn't have been looked upon as it was if the persons mentioned had been outside the track team, but when men who have trained faithfully for months so as to bring honor upon the N. S. U., the article can hardly be turned off as a joke.

smoke," tells its own tale. Still every tenth boy you meet on the street has his hands in his pockets and a cigarette between his teeth, and most of them do not care a rap who sees them smoke.

Some are still new enough to hide the cigarette when a grown-up acquaintance passes by, and to explain away the smell of tobacco by saying, "I know, Bill, he blew his smoke all over me, and it jest made me sick to my stummick, Maw."

And "Maw" believes him.

One mother told me, with tears in her eyes, how those wicked public school boys took her little Willie into the basement, and held him down on the floor and made him smoke. She was thirsting for the blood of the careless principal and all the shiftless teachers who allowed such outrages under their very noses.

"Isn't that Willie, now, out in the back yard smoking?" I asked.

"Ye-es," replies "Maw," "but, you know, he has the habit fastened upon him and now he can't stop. The poor child is trying just as hard as ever he can, but his will is weak, just like his father's people. Oh, I am so sorry I ever sent him to that awful public school!"

Still the Wilbes smoke.

Now comes our evening paper, saying that school boys get drunk, and they do, not only the visiting boys, but our own town boys.

Reeling youths are too frequently seen upon our streets for us to deny the accusation.

A drunken boy does not wish to hide himself—the more he can publish his disgrace the better he likes it.

One of our young guests said Sunday as he was boarding the train for his own town, "Say, fellers, I haven't been in bed since I left home."

And he looked it.

But what are we going to do about it?

It isn't of so much importance to know who supplies the boys with whisky and beer as it is to find out what makes the boys want to get drunk. What is it that has been left out of their bringing up that ought to have been grounded into them so they would want to be trustworthy, respectable citizens instead of besotted brawlers?

If every boy in school wanted to be honorable as much as he wants to be a crack bicycle rider, or a football hero, or the prize speaker, we wouldn't have to do anything about it.

Even our most hardened politicians howled over the way some of the University students are said to have sold their votes last November, some, it is said, bragging of their shrewdness in selling to both parties.

Business men howl over boys taking no interest in their work, and needing a driver.

What are we going to do about it?

Fond mothers can lay the blame upon the father's example, stern papas can swear because the mothers have always been too easy with the boys, the parents can combine and blame the schools and colleges, and the newspapers can blame the liquor sellers and the peace officers, but what good will it do?

There seems to be nothing for it but that the party of the third part—the boys—should take hold of the matter and wrestle out their own salvation.

If the boys themselves will put some of their rooting vigor and class yell energy, spiced with their field day pride, upon the question of clean life and right thinking, we won't have to do anything about it. Matters will right themselves.

We will have more visiting classes

Are our public school boys going to show them a better way of having a good time than that of getting drunk?

Will they give the evening paper another chance to publish their disgrace throughout the state? In the language of little brother—"It's up to you, boys!"

It's easy to find fault. Less brain power is needed for criticising than for any other mental exercise. Now, I wonder how much better the growly man would have done for the president's reception than the committee did.

And it's mean to blame the citizens, too.

The Reno business houses are called upon to give and give and give, and then to give a little more. They are not stingy.

When you come down to cases, do you suppose the president missed a few yards of bunting, and will have the absence of a flag or two charged against Reno? All bosh, my friends. Don't stir yourselves up over trifles.

The committee did the best they could, and what more could anybody do?

I'm thinking that whether the Reno voters stand pat at the next presidenose . . . of his reception does. Likely he never noticed the lacks complained of. Receptions aren't exactly a novelty to him, you know.

Two Accidents at Drill Plant

Two employees at the drilling plant on the Brunswick lode were severely, but not seriously injured, last night. Frank Quirk had the end of the middle finger of his right hand crushed and the flesh stripped from behind the nail to the bone by getting it caught in a chain. Dan Hefferman, the engineer on the night shift, had his clothing caught in the clutch of the electric machinery a short time after the first accident. Mr. Hefferman's clothing was partly stripped from his person before he could extricate himself, and he received a severe contusion under his left eye and was badly bruised.—Report.

A Cannibal King

"Shorty" Cutting, a wandering knight of the art preservative, arrived in town last night. "Shorty" has had an eventful career and at one time was a king of one of the South Sea Islands, where he landed from a wrecked schooner, saps the Enterprise. When he was crowned king he was presented with ten wives, but the ladies of the royal family quarreled constantly, and King Cutting threw up his job and made his escape on the first vessel that touched that island. The king is on his way to Tonopah, where he hopes to make a fortune.

Prospectors go North

During the past week a number of Renoiters have departed for Donnelly mountain to prospect that region. There is considerable activity in that camp this season. The ores are very rich and nothing remains but to determine the extent of the ledges. If they show up in quantity as they do in quality, there is no doubt but that Donnelly will be a lively and prosperous camp for years to come.

A Test Run

Superintendent Harry Clark yesterday completed a test run of Tonopah ores at the Sparks mill. The run was made for the purpose of determining the best method for working the ores in the camp. It could not be learned last evening what percentage of values was saved.

THE JOURNAL'S POSITION*

IN the local columns of yesterday morning's Journal was a report of the proceedings of the City Council, in which it was stated that that body was considering the advisability of licensing the brothels of Reno for the purpose of raising money wherewith to carry on the city government. The Journal reporter correctly stated that the position of this paper would be given by its editor at an early date, although we trust that but few if any of its readers entertained any doubt as to what its position would be.

The Journal regrets that such a proposition should be seriously considered by our City fathers and has no hesitation in setting the seal of its condemnation upon the entire proposal—which position it will maintain so long as it remains under the present editorial control. Within our knowledge, there is no city in this republic which recognizes prostitution as a legitimate avocation or renders it lawful by local ordinance enactment. If there is, in our undenominational belief, it merits the fate of the two cities whose destruction is described in one of the books of the old Testament. The enactment of such an ordinance would render our city government dependent, for a time, upon the bounty of prostitutes, or at least upon the earnings of prostitution. It would to all intents and purposes, place our municipality upon a level with these moral monstrosities, and libels upon humanity, who exist upon the bounty of the unfortunate creatures, who share with them the wages of their shame. That houses of prostitution will continue to exist, whether licensed or not, must be admitted, but that they should be encouraged and legally recognized by municipal order we most emphatically and persistently deny. Because those places cannot be altogether suppressed is no reason why they should receive official sanction, or prostitution be recognized as one of Reno's leading industries upon which the city government is mainly dependent for its expropriation.

The Journal has advised the issuance of bonds as the only alternative, in the city's present financial strait. It is the only legitimate alternative and no time should be lost in carrying it into effect. We do not believe that nine-tenths or even one-tenth of the respectable element would fail to vote upon the question, and that the red light habitues and the vicious element generally would control the election. A good deal more than nine-tenths of the respectable classes were in favor of incorporation, and are still desirous that the city government should go on. In our belief, with such a majority, there is not the slightest danger of defeat at the bond election. If we are mistaken and the people are so neglectful of their own interests as to fail to go to the polls, let them suffer the consequences. Let the Mayor and members of the City Council resign. Let the City government go by default and let us get along under the old system for another two years, or until we can elect a delegation to the legislature that will furnish an Act of Incorporation, which can be financially exploited, without the adoption of a method that will cause every respectable man and woman of Reno to blush at the mention of the source of supplies for the existence of our municipal government.

THE UNITED STATES SENATE

THE senate of the United States consists of ninety members of which at present are fifty-seven Republicans and thirty-three Democrats, a Republican majority of twenty-four. For many years there have been senators who were neither Democrats nor Republicans, but all of these have been eliminated, only Democrats and Republicans remaining. In the senate twenty-four is a large majority.

The terms of one-third (thirty) senators expire March 4, 1905. Can the Democrats win thirteen seats now held by Republicans in order to secure a majority? It is a big job but by no means hopeless. The following States elect senators—now having eight Democrats and twenty-two Republican senators: Tennessee, Mississippi, Texas, Virginia, Montana, Missouri, Florida, Connecticut, New Jersey, Utah, Massachusetts, Maryland, North Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Nevada, Rhode Island, Delaware, California, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Wyoming, New York, Nebraska, Washington, Maine and Ohio.

The first seven named have Democratic senators whose terms expire and the last twenty three have Republicans, including old Bill Stewart, who was elected by a fusion of the Silver party and Democrats, but who proved a traitor by going over to the Republicans. There is not a shadow of a doubt that all seven of the Democratic States will return Democrats. There may be some little shadow of doubt in regard to Montana, but it is so faint as hardly to deserve consideration. The following States are almost certain to elect Republican senators: Michigan, Minnesota, Wyoming, Washington, Maine, Massachusetts, North Dakota, Vermont, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania—10. The following States are more or less doubtful: Rhode Island, Delaware, California, Indiana, New York, Nebraska, Ohio, Connecticut, New Jersey, Utah, Maryland, West Virginia and Nevada—13. Although we have classed Nevada among the doubtful States, its only doubtfulness consists in the possible folly of the anti-Republicans and a division of their votes. If they act unitedly as they have during the last four years, they will have as large a majority in the next legislature as in the last

There is one factor, not much considered now, which might defeat the election of Republican senators in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Michigan, where in the big towns Socialism is growing like Jonah's gourd vine, but it is questionable whether the election of Socialists would enable either of the old parties to control the senate. It would be more likely to give the Socialists the balance of power.

TARIFF INEQUALITIES

PROBABLY very few persons will seriously complain because Mr. Morgan's art collection is brought into the country free of duty as "household effects," it being his announced purpose to make them the nucleus of an immense art museum. At the same time it will serve to direct attention to the inequalities of the tariff.

The fact has long been recognized that articles of prime necessity are subject to heavier duties than are luxuries, which are consumed or used chiefly by the wealthy classes. This has been defended upon the alleged ground that the production of the common necessities of life gives employment to large numbers of American workmen and workingwomen. So it does, and in like manner the production of luxuries, when they are produced at all in this country, gives employment to many people. But this is only one side of the question.

The taxing of necessities bears with much greater severity upon the middle and poorer classes than it does upon the rich. The poor man consumes as much of an absolute necessity of life as the rich man does, (perhaps more,) and the poor man is less able to bear the burden. Moreover, poor men are very much more numerous than rich ones. A few thousand men own the major part of the country's wealth while they pay but a small fraction of the duties laid upon the necessities of life. The burden imposed by this form of taxation rests chiefly upon the poor.

Such a condition might have been and was borne with a degree of philosophical patience while our industries were in their infancy stage and in process of development, but now when those industries have become giant monopolies, the condition, if not actually unbearable, is at least indefensible.

MR. BALL says the world is big enough for all of us to live in. His expressed opinion, however, does not seem to deter him from trying to push the rest of us off the planet.

IF the Republican party was to revise the tariff, would it revise it in the interest of the people or the trusts?

THE truth should not always be told. To verify this ask General Miles.

is the fastest boat ever built in this country. In a drifting match she fairly outclassed the Columbia and Constitution, and when the wind freshened the new defender sailed away from both the boats in wonderful fashion, opening a gap of two miles in ten minutes. The race, which was over a triangular course, was the first of the official trials for the cup defender. Owing to the light wind none of the boats could finish the time limit. The Reliance was far in the lead at the end of the time, with the Columbia and Constitution on even terms.

CHICAGO, Ill., May 23.—Ministers of all denominations have been invited by Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, general secretary of the Congress of Religion, to observe tomorrow as the 100th anniversary of the birth of Ralph Waldo Emerson and to preach sermons reflecting the thought appropriate to the occasion. In his appeal for a general observance of the anniversary Dr. Jones says in part:

"The influence of Emerson has long since become the heritage of all reading and thinking people. First and always, as Matthew Arnold called him, 'the friend and savior of those who would live in the spirit,' we cannot fail to realize with gratitude the great and beneficent influence upon our present moral and religious conceptions of Emerson's thought."

Carnegie Trust Not Unmixed Boon
LONDON, May 23.—According to Principal Story, of the University of Glasgow, the Carnegie Trust is not an unmixed boon to the students. The number of students who pay their own way is rapidly growing less, and the learned principal suggests that the young men are becoming demoralized, and are likely to have their honor and their independence sapped. He declares that instead of paying fees, some portion of the money ought to be devoted to the enlargement of the staff of professors.

FOR CONGRESS

NEW YORK, May 23.—Irwin Mahon, secretary of the American Mining Congress, expects to leave for Deadwood and Lead, S. D., within a few days. He will enter immediately into the work of arousing general interest and enthusiasm throughout the west in the coming session of the American Mining Congress, which is to be held in the Black Hills in September. The various officers and committees of the congress are working in union with the promise of making this coming session an eventful one in the history of the mining industry. The mining men of the Black Hills country are taking their share of the arrangements for the congress. Excursions to the workings of the various mining companies are being planned, and plans are being made to profitably employ every hour of the time spent by men who are interested in the great industry. Assurances have been received by Secretary Mahon that Idaho, Montana, Colorado, Wyoming, Missouri, California, Michigan and other states in which the mining industry flourishes will be well represented at the congress. In connection with the gathering there will be a large and comprehensive exhibit of ore specimens, mining machinery and equipment.

Too Difficult a Task

Major Ingalls is breaking down under the duties of his position. He has been working early and late and in addition to entertaining all the guests of the chamber, his duties as correspondent of the chamber occupy his time fully.

The Chamber of Commerce should employ a janitor and typewriter at the chamber. It is too much to expect of one man to do the work devolving upon the major. He will tender his resignation shortly unless relief is afforded.

Funeral Today.

The funeral of the late Tina Johnson will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the residence of her brother-in-law, Harry Clausen. It will be conducted by the Rebekahs and Maccabees. The funeral will be one of the largest ever held in Reno, for the deceased was universally beloved.

Coming From Every where

The register of the Reno Chamber of Commerce is evidence that Reno is visited daily by people from all over the United States. The register shows daily an average representation from ten or twelve states in the union.

A SURE THING.

It is said that nothing is sure except death and taxes, but that is not a 1 together true. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption is a sure cure for all lung and throat troubles. One bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery then cured me absolutely." It's infallible for croup, Whooping cough, Grip, Pneumonia and Consumption. Try it. It's guaranteed by S. J. Hodgkinson Druggist. TALENTED LOCAL WRITER.

John Harold Hamlin, Contributor of an Interesting Sketch.

It is not becoming to say ill of one who dwells in our midst. It is even more ill-advised when the criticism is made by one who would not attempt to compete with him in the work he has performed.

The Journal will therefore be extremely careful in reviewing John Harold Hamlin's latest story, a contribution to the current issue of Sunset, California's splendid young magazine.

Mr. Hamlin's theme was "The Spliced Picket Rope." The scene is laid on the eastern slope of the Sierra and the hero is likewise the villain, in fact he is a horse thief.

But, and this is the first criticism that must be made, the horse thief was a moral young man, possessed of fine sensibilities, such a person as would write stories for magazines in lieu of swiping horse flesh as a means of subsistence.

Then, again, the herb, or villain, should not have been hung. His lady love from the east should have arrived in the nick of time and caused the vigilantes to shed tears instead of blood. In the event of her train being late, the rough miner with whom the hero-villain bunked should have produced his six shooter and said, "Avaunt, base villains!"

With these trifling criticisms the Journal will dismiss Mr. Hamlin from custody, requesting only that he refrain in the future from superfluity in the matter of adjectives. Jesus Christ used none and his words will be read with pleasure and avidity long ages after Mr. Hamlin and co-writers are lost in the immeasurable and un-historic oblivion of departed time.
